- Community Health:

- Rural health check camps:

- Adani Foundation and Wockhardt Foundation ran a programme that provided primary healthcare to 18 villages of Tamnar. With its outreach, the Mobile Medicare Unit system proved instrumental in addressing the needs of disadvantaged communities. The mobile medicare unit is a comprehensive Mobile Medicare Health Programme that provides mobility, affordability, accessibility, availability and awareness. MHCU covered 25 to 40 Kms from the centre and visited three villages a day. MMU healthcare services included free doctor's consultation, distribution of medicines, diagnostic tests and referral to other healthcare facilities.

- Menstrual hygiene awareness camps

- Menstrual hygiene awareness camps were organized in the villages of Pendrikhi, Pargogiya and Chakeri to sensitize rural women on the importance of using sanitary napkins. Because of low literacy and lack of health awareness, most rural women were not using sanitary pads, which resulted in health issues. Through such campaigns, a behavioral change emerged.

- Sustainable Livelihoods Development

- Project Annapurna

- Project Annapurna is a livelihood based initiative aimed at sustainable agricultural practices including organic farming. Some 500 farmers were covered under this project. Training was provided to increase land productivity and reduce input costs. Organic farming is in progress across 200 acres. Organic fertilizers are produced in Parsa village, which will enable farmers to pursue organic farming on a larger scale.

- Vermicomposting tanks construction

- Adani Foundation provided training to manufacture organic manure in Gare Pelma-III. Ten earthworm tanks were constructed. By producing organic manure, farmers can increase income and produce quality crops.

Manufacturing unit

Adani Foundation encouraged women of village Karwahi in dona pattal manufacture. Adani Foundation provided the machine and paper rolls. Six women were engaged in plate making and four in marketing products.

- Covid-19 measures

• Sports

Garv Hai

Garv Hai initiative named after the group's pilot project built around the Rio Olympics 2016, is a nationwide programme that aims to reach out and empower stakeholders in the sports fraternity. The initiative aims to nurture India's next generation of sporting champions and support them in their journey towards Olympic glory.

Last year, applications were invited from athletes across India in multiple sports to ensure maximum reach. Some 19 promising athletes, with balanced representation of young and experienced talent were shortlisted from more than 5000 entries received from 100 cities across 29 states. The list included icons such as Amit Panghal, Deepak Punia and Rani Rampal.

The objective of this programme is to support athletes in their quest to better results at global level, bringing pride to the nation. It provides world class training and customised individual training plans to the selected athletes so as ensure optimum productivity and maximum results. The athletes are provided monetary support for full time coaches, tournament expenses, supplements, mind trainers, dietary needs etc. Performance benchmarks are set for each athlete and training is closely monitored. An amount of Rs. 3 to 5 Lakhs is provided to junior athletes and Rs. 10 to 12 Lakhs for elite athletes.

Overall, the programme promotes a sporting ecosystem that extends from grassroots to the top-most levels and creates a database of promising athletes.
